Theme - SMAC IT

We, The Department of Computer Science and Engineering, chose SMAC as a theme for this Symposium.

In the fast-paced, jargon-filled world of the Indian information technology industry, a new acronym is being marked in bold.

"SMAC", the acronym for Social, Mobility, Analytics and Cloud, is not just the latest buzzword but it's also quickly becoming a business reality.

"The chief executive has not written it on the door yet, but SMAC occupies most of the conversations these days," said Naresh Nagarajan, a top executive at India's fourth-largest technology company, HCL Technologies.

Today's SMAC Stack—'The Fifth Wave' of IT architecture—is happening faster than anything that's come before. By 2020, as many as 100 billion computing devices will be connected to the Web and corporations will be managing 50 times the data they do currently. So SMAC will have a multiplying effect on businesses and increase productivity across the organization.

In all Industries across the business landscape, the SMAC Stack is eroding the century-old blueprint of value chains and spawning new, highly distributed, virtualized business models.

The power of this technology platform is in treating it as a stack, for its components have a multiplying effect when they work in combination.
